Marking guidance

Deciding on the mark point within a level

The first stage for an examiner is to decide the overall level and then whether the work represents high, mid or low performance within the level.

Quality of written communication

This issue is determined by the quality of written communication as described in the level descriptor in which the answer has been placed. Examiners should place the response at the appropriate sub-level. If the quality of the written communication descriptor is warranted, then the highest mark within that sub-level should be awarded.

ASSESSMENT GRID FOR SECTION A ESSAYS

Target: AO1

Total mark: 40

Focus: Recall, selection and deployment of appropriate historical knowledge; demonstrate understanding of the past through explanation, analysis and arriving at substantiated judgements about key concepts

Level 1
Generally at this level, the candidate's response will be brief and / or irrelevant to the question set. They may recall some historical knowledge and they will show some accuracy in spelling, punctuation and grammar Award 0 for incorrect or incomplete answers.

Level 1	Assessment Objective 1(a)	Assessment Objective 1(b)
	(1 mark)	(1-3 marks)
	The candidate is able to recall some historical knowledge and there is some accuracy in spelling, punctuation and grammar.	Low Level 1: 1 mark The answer will be limited to generalised comments on the topic with little understanding of the concept set in the question and is generally irrelevant. High Level 1: 2 -3 marks The answer will be limited to some comments on the topic with little understanding of the concept set in the question.

Level 2

Generally at this level, candidates will show evidence of understanding in their explanation of the key concept set in the question. They will show evidence of understanding through limited analysis and explanation. They will offer some judgement about the key concepts. They will be able to recall, select and deploy some relevant historical knowledge appropriately. The candidates will convey meaning with some clarity and with appropriate vocabulary, although there may be errors in spelling, punctuation and grammar.

Level 2	Assessment Objective 1(a)	Assessment Objective 1(b)
	(2-3 marks)	(4-11 marks)
	Low Level 2: 2 marks The candidate is able to recall, select and deploy some general knowledge of the period with some appropriate vocabulary, spelling, punctuation and grammar. High Level 2: 3 marks The candidate is able to recall, select and deploy general knowledge of the key issues in the period set with mostly appropriate vocabulary, spelling, punctuation and grammar.	Low Level 2: 4-7 marks The answer will begin to show some evidence of limited understanding and explanation of factors. It will offer some comments about the relationships between the key issues and features of the historical period. The answer will be generally focussed on the topic area and has some basic explanation of something in the question; these answers may well be a narrative account with little attempt to provide a judgement on the question set. High Level 2: 8-11 marks The answer will begin to focus on the set question and will show some limited analysis and explanation of the concept set in the question. It will offer some judgement about the relationship between the key historical features and characteristics in relation to the question set. The answer will be relevant and valid but with a weak or sketchy focus on the key concept in the question; a largely topic based response with little specific judgement offered on the question set.

Level 3

Generally at this level, candidates will show evidence of understanding through analysis and explanation. They will reach a judgement about the key concepts supported by the arguments they deploy. Candidates will recall, select and deploy relevant historical knowledge and will convey meaning clearly and with appropriate vocabulary, organisation and spelling, punctuation and grammar.

The candidate is able to offer some valid discussion about the relationships between key features and characteristics in relation to the key concept set in the question such as causation, consequence, continuity, change and significance. The answer may well be a largely narrative account but with some attempt to provide a judgement on the question set. The judgement, though present at some point in the response, tends not to be supported by the argument being made though it may well have factual support. Mid Level 3: 13-14 marks The answer has an appropriate focus on the key concept in the question set and is able to show evidence of understanding by valid analysis and explanation. The candidate is able to offer a valid discussion about the relationships between key features and characteristics in relation to the key concept set in the question such as causation, consequence, continuity, change and significance. The answer may well contain some narrative but there will be an attempt to provide supporting arguments to reach a judgement on the question set. The judgement, though present at some point in the response, tends to be partially supported by the argument being made in the response. The responses may follow a listing approach but there will be some focus and judgement on the key concept in the question set.

	High Level 3: 6 marks The candidate is able to recall, select and deploy generally relevant historical knowledge and the response will be clearly expressed with appropriate language and structure and appropriate spelling, punctuation and grammar.	High Level 3: 15-16 marks The answer has a clear focus on the key concept in the question set and is able to show evidence of understanding by valid analysis and explanation. The candidate is able to offer a valid and broadly balanced discussion about the relationships between key features and characteristics in relation to the key concept set in the question such as causation, consequence, continuity, change and significance. The answer may well contain some narrative but there will be an attempt to provide supporting arguments to reach a broadly balanced judgement on the question set. The judgement, though present at some point in the response, is generally supported by the argument being made in the response. These responses may well discuss the key issue in the question set when coming to a judgement by considering factors for and against, often as two half essays.

INDICATIVE CONTENT FOR SECTION A QUESTION 1

NOTE: This content is not prescriptive and candidates are not expected to mention all the material referred to below. Each answer will be assessed on its merits according to the generic mark scheme as well as the indicative content.

‘The need to preserve the survival of the Republic was the main objective of the Terror.’ Discuss.

Candidates are expected to consider and debate, over and within the given period, the full range of issues that affected the key concept in the question – in this case, the objectives of the Terror. They will consider a range of key concepts such as causation, consequence, continuity, change and significance where appropriate and also the relationship between the key characteristics and features associated with the issue in the question.

Candidates will offer an analysis and evaluation of measures taken to preserve the survival of the Republic in the context of other objectives of the Terror. In order to reach a substantiated judgement about the objectives of the Terror, candidates may consider and debate a range of issues such as:

- the nature and extent of the challenges confronting the Republic in 1792-1793 and an evaluation of whether these threatened the very survival of the Republic
- the social and economic crisis of the early 1790s
- detailed consideration of the counter-revolutionary threat links with the Federal Revolt and the Vendee uprising - Toulon and the British. The Republic was forced to fight internal as well as external enemies
- consideration of the way in which the various threats were dealt with - estimate of the success of the government’s policies
- the pursuit of other agendas by some leading Jacobin and their sans-culottes allies - evidence of another agenda under the protection of the CPS
- while preserving the integrity and survival of the Republic was the central objective of the government, once this had been achieved in the autumn/winter of 1793 there was no down-sizing of the Terror. Many pushed for other agendas to be carried out in the social and religious policies enforced.

INDICATIVE CONTENT FOR SECTION A QUESTION 2

NOTE: This content is not prescriptive and candidates are not expected to mention all the material referred to below. Each answer will be assessed on its merits according to the generic mark scheme as well as the indicative content.

To what extent did the Civil Constitution of the Clergy have the most significant impact on the relationship between the Church and the Revolution?

Candidates are expected to consider and debate, over and within the given period, the full range of issues that affected the key concept in the question – in this case, the changing relationship between the Church and the Revolution. They will consider a range of key concepts such as causation, consequence, continuity, change and significance where appropriate and also the relationship between the key characteristics and features associated with the issue in the question.

Candidates will offer an analysis and evaluation of the Civil Constitution of the Clergy in the context of other developments that had an impact on the relationship between the Church and the Revolution. In order to reach a substantiated judgement about the significance of the Civil Constitution of the Clergy, candidates may consider and debate a range of issues such as:

- the relationship between the key characteristics influencing the Catholic Church during the revolution
- the extent to which there was continuity as well as change in the church during and over this period
- this was an attempt by the bourgeois dominated National Assembly to bring the church into line with the abiding principles of the revolution
- as the revolution had gathered momentum the perceived links of the church with the ancien regime and the counter-revolution prompted some committed revolutionaries to turn their attention to it and bring it into line with other key institutions which were being reformed notably the monarchy and the new constitution
- the removal of the wealth of the church when its lands were nationalised in November 1789, followed by the loss of the tithe income undermined its financial integrity and independence and made it reliant on the state. The CCC was a continuation of this process
- during the Jacobin Republic the contained links of the church with the counter-revolution particularly in the Vendee prompted many extreme Jacobins to wage a policy of de-christianisation against it this arguably was potentially the most significant threat to the church since it sought its elimination both physical and spiritual from France
- the policy of de-christianisation was bold and radical its impact was largely confined to the excesses of Year II and to urban areas. The majority of the population lived in rural areas where the other changes were felt more profoundly
- the CCC forced French people to make choices they would otherwise have hope to avoid. This was given legitimacy in the Clerical oath. Divisions now became polarised for the first time.
