Source A

From a press release announcing the opening of Southdale Centre shopping mall, in the northern state of Minnesota in October 1956. It was the first covered mall in the US.

The Southdale Centre presents a quiet and dignified appearance, inviting the shopper to enter through one of ten huge all-glass entrances into the interior. Here the shoppers find themselves in an atmosphere of unparalleled liveliness, colorfulness, and beauty.

Between shopping activities there is an opportunity for rest in the sidewalk cafe and on the many rest benches. Here is a chance to amble and promenade, to window-shop, to chat with friends, and a large array of features arouses interest and invites contemplation.

Trees, tropical plants, flowers, a bird cage, sculptures, and other work of important artists, a pond, a fountain, a juice bar, a cigar and newsstand are some of them.
