Source A

[John Ball, in a sermon given during the 1370s]

The people rose against the Chief Justice, Sir Robert Belknap and told him he was acting in a way to cause harm to them. They made him swear on the Bible that he would never again attempt to collect such an unjust tax nor act as Justice in any trials. Sir Robert travelled home as quickly as possible.

[An extract from the Anonimalle Chronicle of St Mary's describing the reaction of the people of Fobbing to the arrival of tax collectors]

What can be learnt from Sources A and B about the factors leading to the Peasants' Revolt, 1381? [4]

4

Study the source below and then answer the question which follows.

Many villages and hamlets became deserted. Sheep and cattle went wandering over fields and through crops and there was no one to go and look after them. Landowners could not get a reaper for less than 8d with his food, a mower for less than 12d with his food. Therefore, many crops rotted in the fields for want of someone to harvest them.

To what extent does this source accurately reflect the longer-term consequences of the Black Death?

[8]

[In your answer you should refer to the strengths and limitations of the source and use your own knowledge and understanding of the historical context.]

Read the interpretation below and then answer the question which follows.

[Terry MacEwen, a freelance writer, writing in an article entitled Edward The Black Prince, published on the website Historic.uk in 2019. Historic.uk is an online history and heritage accommodation guide.]

[In your answer you should refer to how and why interpretations of this issue differ. Use your own knowledge and understanding of the wider historical debate over this issue to reach a well-supported judgement.]
